THE 1928 SENTINEL

Issued annually
by the

JUNIOR CLASS
UNIVERSITY of MONTANA

IT has been the aim of the staff of this, the twenty-fourth volume of the Sentinel, to present the students with a year book which will be a lasting record of revered traditions, activities, and of the many other events, which combined, mirror the campus history.

We have earnestly endeavoured to prepare a book which will be the true reflection of the activities of the class of 1928 and hope that in years to come this, their last student annual, will bring back memories of the happiest years of their life.

Through the theme, "Railway Development," we have striven to present artistically the driving spirit of the pioneer—the spirit that has endured and developed this, our University.

DEDICATION

TO Montana's pioneers—the state's noblest. Born with a spirit of determination—"Champions of the Frontier." Men whose ideals were high, whose goal was far-visioned—with a keen foresight of a future. Men who loved "The Land of the Shining Mountains." They forged ahead—laying a foundation as they went, toiling hard and long—with but personal satisfaction for their gain. They knew no fear and sacrificed all that a new state might be born—that one more stage of the frontier might be overcome.

To these men, the real men of Montana, we, the members of the Junior class, dedicate this, the twenty-fourth volume of the Sentinel.

AS we peer back over the annals of history—back around 1853—Stevens, Mullen, Bridger, and Bozeman are recalled—men who built the first trails, the first routes over what later became the State of Montana. Then as we go on—and through to 1908—the railroads came, following somewhat these first routes and we recall Dillon, president of the Union Pacific when what is now the Oregon Short Line, Montana's first railway, was constructed; Billings and Villard of the Northern Pacific; Hill of the Great Northern; and Pearson of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific.

These men, "Pioneers All," were our first builders, our first leaders—who established a constructive spirit that has been the background and a real characteristic of the Treasure State.

Alma Mater

Arches are built for proud triumphs,
Where pride-shattered slaves, too, must bend.
Arches are sometimes for service,
But my arch is only a friend.

The sun flecks my hair with its gold dust
In patterns of tremulous light,
The rain and the snow wet my eyelids,
The dew is my cover at night.

My leaves are a-tremble with longing
To share in the pleasures and cares
Of those who pass under my shadow,
My heart throbbing fondly with theirs.

Rejoicing in glad shouts of laughter,
Downcast by an unhappy face,
With arms of live green all-encircling
I comfort in close-held embrace.

Tears falling for those who are leaving,
They see not and seem not to know
That fear which to me is foreboding
Lest memories, too, soon may go.

But closely entwined I have held them,
Those memories dear to us all,
And along the bent path of the future,
Soft, velvety petals, they'll fall.

- RUTH C. GANNAWAY.

UNIVERSITY

To the "Trail Blazer" With his brain and his brawn he fashioned and set the cornerstone upon which has been builded the structure which we call civilization. No towering shaft may mark the way he came, but every foot of the highways that bisect the State, every house of worship, every temple of justice, every school house bears mute but glorious testimony to his having tarried long enough to transform a wilderness into a garden. His task is finished—ours is to carry on with such high purpose that his faith in the land and in us may be completely justified.

John H. Burton
Governor of the State of Montana

My cordial greetings and good wishes to the members of 1928. May your present adventure in education train you to scrutinize rigidly every doctrine proposed by yourself and others. May you recognize and avoid whatever is false and confusing in written and spoken words. May you acquire a noble enthusiasm for truth and the welfare of society. May you be worthy of the pioneers of Montana who wrought supremely well in conquering the frontier in building a state and in achieving the economic industrial social educational and political liberty with which our heritage is now endowed.

Melvin A. Bramson

Chancellor of the Greater University

Although the prospect of easy wealth was alluring, the real pioneer was led to leave comfortable surroundings by the spirit of adventure and the joy there is in the overcoming of obstacles. He discovered trails, built roads, followed the larger valleys with railroads and tunneled the mountain passes. But obstacles greater than mountains still block the way of progress. The hope that perhaps some day the seemingly impossible problems of civilization may be solved, keeps taxpayers, churches, and parents supporting Colleges and Universities. This hope will be justified if students will do their work in the spirit of the real pioneer.

Charles H. Clapp

President.

We who enjoy the present benefits of the University should pay homage to Oscar John Craig, first president of the University. His life is projected in definite and elevating influences into the lives of many hundreds of Montana college men, trained for leadership and upon whom the world has claims for lives of virtue and beneficence but it is still a more impressive thought that we are only at the beginning. Let us resolve to be worthy of the excellent heritage which we have from such pioneers as Craig, and to walk with usefulness the ways of our daily life against the coming of the glad reunion in the house not made by hands.

Vice President

Our University is yet in its frontier days. The responsibilities of the pioneers still rest upon the students and alumni. There are tasks to be undertaken as real as those on the physical frontier. Wherever there is a need for a job well done there is a place for the pioneer. Nor will we soon outgrow the need for those who go before preparing the way for others to follow. "Those who have gone before have done much, but they have finished nothing." To the "old grad" who has served well will come the gratifications of the pioneer.

Bob Speer

Business Manager

The trail blazers and the pioneers of Montana honestly faced and courageously strove to solve the difficult problems of frontier life. In so doing, they laid the secure foundation upon which our state and its institutions are to stand. Will the students of Montana with the same candor and courage carry on the work so well begun?

J. J. Miller

Dean of Men

The University of Montana is your University. Do you count first among your responsibilities your obligation to its welfare and progress? You are the sons and daughters of the pioneers of Montana. Are you willing to carry on the work of those courageous men and women who sacrificed so much to make possible your University?

Maud Rankin Solomon

Dean of Women

As the school year draws to a close our feelings vary. We should all have one common feeling, however, namely, "that Montana shall prosper." Those of us who are returning should resolve to redouble our efforts. Those of us who are graduating should not lose sight or touch with our Alma Mater, but should become active in Alumni affairs.

Miles J. Thomas

President of A S U M

The need of an organization for women students came in September, 1914, and resulted in a Women's League. With an increase in membership and demands the A W S was organized. The purpose being to continue and better the friendship of its members and to regulate the social affairs pertaining to the women students. With growing interest and progress it should become one of the most active organizations on the campus.

Marquerite Hughes

President of A W S

School of Business Administration

R. C. Line, Dean

State Hall

The School of Business Administration, one of the largest in the University, has enjoyed a steady growth during the last few years and which culminated in the school being housed in a modern building last fall. Craig Hall, formerly a women's dormitory, was remodeled and modernly equipped to provide adequate quarters for this school. R. C. Line became Dean of the school last fall, succeeding Shirley J. Coon.

The course of study in the School of Business Administration covers a large field. Elementary courses give training in clerical work while the advanced courses train the student for administrative positions in industrial and commercial organizations and in public service. It is the aim of this school to properly train young men and women so they will be able to fill executive positions in the future. The School of Business Administration and the School of Law cooperate making it possible for a student to obtain in six years, the degree of Bachelor of Arts in Business Administration and the degree of Bachelor of Laws. Students who intend to follow law as a profession, find this combination most desirable and inducing. Those students who are interested in Advertising may combine courses from the School of Journalism and the Psychology Department with their Business Administration studies and those students who wish to teach commercial subjects may obtain the University Certificate of Qualifications to teach. Alpha Kappa Psi, national commercial fraternity for men and Gamma Epsilon Pi, a similar organization for women, have chapters on the Montana campus and these two groups, linked with the Commercial Club, which is open to both men and women, are active in problems closely connected with the school.

School of Forestry

Photo Hall

F. C. Spaulding, Dean

Situated in the heart of a richly timbered section of the state, where every inland forest type of the Northwest is found, Montana's School of Forestry enjoys unusual opportunities for practical work. As much as possible of the technical instruction is carried on in the field. Two year's summer field practice is required of students in the school. Nearby sawmills have offered their plants for laboratory purposes.

The acquisition by the school of fifteen hundred acres of timbered land provides a forest workshop. Plans are under way at the present time for developing this area into a demonstration forest. The forest nursery is an important feature of the school. At present it is being developed rapidly. Approximately a million and a half seedlings were grown last year and the number will be doubled this year. The nursery comprises fifteen acres north of the campus and will be, when completed, the largest forestry school nursery in the world. Plans are now being made to have a permanent arboretum surrounding the nursery.

"Montana Forest and Timber Handbook," a bulletin prepared by the School of Forestry cooperating with the United States Forest Service, was published this year. It contains such articles as "State Forest Problems," "Production and Consumption of Forest Products," and a monograph of Montana commercial trees, as well as directories of industries connected with forestry. At various times during its existence the School of Forestry has been the recipient of valuable donations to the museum until now the collection is comparable to any other in the country.

School of Journalism

A. L. Stone, Dean

Marcus Cook Hall

"Background" has come to be an important word in the School of Journalism. Perhaps in no other profession is a wide cultural and informational background so necessary as in Journalism. It is for this reason that the practical courses in newspaper work are supplemented by many courses in the College of Arts and Sciences, enabling the students to build up a broad and comprehensive preparation for their later work in the newspaper field. The professional courses in the School of Journalism are thoroughly practical, their purpose being to develop reporters with a workable knowledge of the fundamentals of Journalism.

The "Shack," properly known as Marcus Cook Hall, is a veritable work shop. Here in an atmosphere very similar to that in a newspaper office, students are given training in gathering, handling, and the presentation of news as well as in managerial and editorial work. The study of current events and news values is an important part of the curriculum. The school has long maintained a "Morgue" or dead news room. At the present time this morgue is being converted into a usable newspaper library. Many metropolitan dailies are being clipped regularly, and the valuable news filed systematically, according to methods used by the larger newspaper libraries of the country. This year another milestone was passed by the Montana Kaimin, the semi-weekly newspaper put out by students of the School of Journalism. In March the Kaimin expanded from a seven to an eight column sheet, adding a total of about five and a half columns in all. Work on the Kaimin is carried on by students and furnishes a valuable source of practical experience in editing and writing news.

School of Law

Law Building

C. W. Leightner, Dean

Montana's School of Law is housed in a modernly equipped building, with adequate class, office, and court room facilities. The Law School library, one of the finest and most complete in the Northwest, by using the William Wirt Dixon Memorial library as a nucleus, is composed of a collection of law books that include a number of complete standard reporting systems, United States Supreme Court reports, complete reports for the states, English and Canadian reports, citators, encyclopedias, digests, and numerous text and reference works. To a great extent the library is the result of the generous gifts and legacies of Mrs. W. W. Dixon, and the gifts of Judge John J. McHatton.

The Law School is the only school on the campus that requires college preparatory work before a student may enroll. Two years of regular University courses are prerequisite for admission. This is followed by a course of study which normally takes three years, in the Law School itself. The case system of instruction is employed. Practice court work is an important part of the curriculum, through which the students are required not only to debate legal questions, but also to try cases, prepare appeals, and to go through all of the steps incident to the trial of a law suit. In another respect the Law School differs from other schools on the campus: it has the distinction of being the only one in which the honor system is employed. This system has been in successful operation ever since the foundation of the school. Honesty and integrity are required of every student receiving the LL.B. degree.

School of Music

Deloss Smith, Dean

Practice House

Deloss Smith has been Dean of the School of Music since it was established in 1914. Previous to that time there was no School of Music at the University but piano instruction was given. The School of Music offers a course which will permit students to become candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts in Music. Courses are offered in applied music, voice, violin, and piano; ensemble music, harmony, history of music, music education, and a great many others. Student recitals are given at intervals during the school year, affording students an opportunity to apply in public the ability and proficiency they have developed. A special course covering a period of four years is maintained for supervisors and teachers of music in public schools. Observation work in this course is carried on in the city schools of music.

The latest addition to the equipment of the School of Music is a two manual Estey studio organ which was installed in the music house last fall. The organ is built on the exact principles and measurements of a pipe organ. Before this time students studying pipe organ were by necessity forced to practise at the Episcopal church. Mrs. Florence Smith is instructor in organ music. Ensemble music and activities into which students interested in music may enter, are numerous. Under the direction of Professor A. H. Weisberg, the University Symphony Orchestra is maintained throughout the school year. The University Glee Club, the Choral Society, and the Women's Glee Club are other organizations which offer varied opportunities. The membership of Sigma Alpha Iota, women's national music fraternity, is made up of Juniors and Seniors in the School of Music who have shown outstanding musical ability.

School of Pharmacy

Science Hall

C. E. Mullett, Dean

The Pharmacy School, rated first class by the American Association of Pharmacy Schools, has far outgrown its accommodations on the campus since its organization in 1907, with a steady, rapid increase in enrollment. The pharmacists are hoping for a separate, modern building, soon, to be equipped to meet the needs of the department. Charles E. Mullett, Dean of the school, and John F. Suchy, instructor, have developed a medicinal plant garden, with the assistance of their students. The Bureau of Plant Industry, and schools of other states have cooperated by sending plant specimens, and besides these, many medicinal herbs native to Montana have been profitably cultivated. From these, medicines are made by the class in manufacturing pharmacy. The School of Pharmacy supplies to the University Health Service Department drugs and medicines which are in turn distributed to the students.

Beside the membership in State and National Associations of Pharmacy, the Montana school was in 1920 admitted to membership in the United States Pharmacopoeial Association. Two professional fraternities have chapters on the campus, Kappa Psi, men's national pharmacy fraternity, which was organized here in 1920, and Kappa Epsilon, women's national pharmaceutical fraternity, chartered locally in 1923. A three-year and a four-year course are offered at present, the latter leading to the B.S. degree in Pharmacy. Related work in the Departments of Business Administration, Chemistry, Physics, Biology, Botany, and Economics are required. There is an increasing demand throughout the state for druggists, and many in the field are graduates of the Montana school. At present there are fifty students enrolled.

Although the distinctive class garb for seniors is a relatively new venture on this campus, it has been in vogue on a number of campuses throughout the country.

Last year, the men of the graduating class chose an exclusive garb of their own, gray hats of western design, and trimmed with a leather band on which were the class numerals, '27. Previous to then, the seniors were distinguished only by their junior "cords" of the year before.

The men of this year's graduating class also chose gray western hats similar to those worn last year, and with the leather band bearing the numerals '28. To show the men that they couldn't "put anything over on them" the senior women organized and decided upon an exclusively senior insignia and chose black and white scarves.

When the class of '29 entered the University it had the largest Freshman enrollment in the history of the school. This class began its activities by painting the M early and by giving a dance for the Sophomores. As Freshmen they were successful in class scraps but went down to traditional defeat in the annual Frosh Soph tug-of-war. Athletically the class distinguished itself, especially in football.

Early in the Sophomore year members were chosen for Tanan and Bear Paw and they performed their duties well. This same year the Sophomores entertained for the Freshmen and the Bear Paws gave an all-University dance. In the Junior year maroon-colored blanket coats were selected for the class garb. The annual Junior Prom given in honor of the graduating class, was held during the spring quarter. Throughout the three years the members of the class of '29 have been active in dramatics, music, debate and ranked high both scholastically and socially. In athletics the class has been outstanding. Among the class athletes are Lloyd Callison, Edward Chinske, Bob Tiernan, Tom Davis, Carl Ross, Sid Stewart, Reid Harmon and George Huber.

It was the men of the class of '23 who set the precedent at Montana, when they chose gray corduroy trousers as their distinctive class attire and thereby established a new tradition on the Montana campus. These gray "cords" were the class insignia for the three following years. By then, corduroy trousers were the popular apparel of practically every man on the campus—the Junior Class Garb was no longer exclusively theirs! Since some change had to be made, and the class of '27 did not want to depart too far from the established precedent, they chose corduroy knickerbockers.

However, the "knicker" idea was short-lived. Last year bright red vests with gold numerals were worn and for the first time in the history of the tradition, men and women both wore the garb.

Maroon-colored blanket coats trimmed with silver and gold were chosen by this year's class, and numerals of the class '29 are on the left pocket.

The class of '30 has been unusually active and to its members goes the credit for establishing new precedents and for always being alert to better, in all ways possible, student spirit at Montana. This class established the custom of having a mixer dance in the men's gymnasium, following the painting of the M in the spring. All class fights with the exception of the Freshman Sophomore tug of war were permanently abandoned last year. Due to high water conditions the tug of war had to be called off and the class of '30 was not given a chance to test its strength against the members of '29. At the Mount St. Charles Montana football game this year's Tanans and Bear Paws were selected and the groups have carried on their duties in an admirable manner. Instead of having two dances the two organizations combined and entertained with an informal carnival dance, which was one of the enjoyable social events of the winter quarter. Athletes from the class of '30 are George Schotte, John Keyes, James Gillan, Ted Rule, James Clark, Henry Miller, Carl Rankin, Donald Steyningson, Foy Priest and George Woodworth. The rest of the class has been very active in all other phases of extra-curricular activities.

Once a year the Sophomore class forgets for a night its traditional treatment of the Freshmen and puts away the much feared paddles and entertains the first year class at an informal dance. Although the Freshmen are guests of honor, all upper classmen are invited and this year an unusually large attendance enjoyed the under class social function. Jane Chapple, vice-president of the class, served as chairman due to the fact that Jimmie Gillan, class president, was away on a Varsity football trip. The dance was held at the Elite Hall, Friday, the fourth of November. Punch was served during the evening and Sheridan's ten piece dance orchestra furnished the music and entertained with several novelty numbers. The dance was one of the best social functions of the year.

Each new class that comes to Montana is declared to be the best class to enter the institution and the class of '31 was no exception to the rule. Since its inception last fall, the class has been proving itself to be one of the finest in history. During Freshmen week, September 25-29, before the Sophomores had time to plaster their proclamation on the sidewalks, the Montana Sentinel received its fall coat of lime and the Freshman proclamation to the Sophomores was issued. Temporary officers were also elected. Lamar Jones was chosen as president; Rhea Traver, vice-president; Beatrice Moravitz, secretary; Margorie Stewart, treasurer, and Edward Lovell, delegate to Central Board. Three weeks later the permanent class officers were selected. From the beginning, the class has been loyal to all extra-curricular activities. Athletes promising good Varsity material and who won their numerals, are John Page, Clyde Carpenter, Tom Moore, Frank Thradkill, Robert Davis, James Holmes, Phillip Duncan, Russell Peterson, Marvin Amick, Stewart Prather, James Brophy, Clarence Mublick, Carl Walker and David Williams.

One of Montana's most outstanding traditions is the painting of the M on Mount Sentinel. Twice a year the members of the Freshman class ascend the steep hill and give the large letter a clean-up. Early in the fall, preceding the first football game and in the spring, Freshmen, laden with rakes, brooms and buckets of water and lime, climb the well-worn trail up Sentinel. After cutting out the weeds and cleaning away the grass the whitewash is applied. The letter is one hundred feet long and sixty feet wide and is built of rocks. An entire afternoon is devoted to the task and the girls serve a luncheon to the hungry workers when the job is completed. In the spring time, immediately after the M has been painted, the class holds an informal dance in the men's gymnasium.

Athletics at the University are directly in charge of a council known as the Athletic Board which is composed of seven members. Three are from the Student Body, the president of ASUM, who is chairman of the Board, and the Business Manager and Secretary of ASUM. Two members are from the faculty and two from the Alumni of the University. The duties of the Athletic Board are many and varied. It formulates the Athletic policies of the school and supervises and controls so that they will be in harmony with the policies of the school. It ratifies schedules, recommends managers of the major sports, furthers interest in athletics, awards numerals and Varsity letters and supervises the buying of equipment for the teams.

Leading the cheers that instill the Grizzly fight calls for something more than an optimist. Rain or shine, victory or defeat, the yell kings must be on their toes from the starting whistle to the final gun, radiating pep and enthusiasm all the while.

This year the yell department laid the cornerstone for a new era in Montana cheering. The need for a more up to date cheering section has been felt for some time but it was only this year that anything was done towards this and under the direction of Nelson Fritz, Yell King, a big step was taken during the basketball season when card cheering was inaugurated.

The position of yell king is filled by a vote of the student body and the person elected chooses his assistants as he sees fit.

Dornblaser Field, Montana's athletic field, was named in honor of Paul Logan Dornblaser in 1920, to be a lasting monument to the man who has come to be known as Montana's premier football hero.

Paul Dornblaser, '14, was killed in action at Mont Blanc, France, October 8, 1918. He died as he had lived at the University, fighting—not for personal glory but for the glory of his colors. In the above photograph of burial ceremonies during the war, Dornblaser's grave is marked by the doughboy's hat hanging on the cross.

This year the football manager's M was awarded to Henry McFarlin who was appointed last spring by Central Board upon the recommendation of the coaches.

The manager's position is a tough one in more ways than one and is deserving of a lot of credit. Plenty of work and long hours, coupled with a long apprenticeship are things that every manager encounters and passes through to get his letter. McFarlin filled the position well and will be succeeded by Jerome Dahl.

To Big Lou Vierlus, one of the mainstays of the Grizzly line, of which Coach Bagshaw said, "From tackle to tackle Montana has one of the strongest lines on the coast," fell the honor of captaining Montana's 1927 football team. Fighting hard, setting the pace, calling encouragement, and instilling the Grizzly fight, Big Lou, as captain, was a real leader.

Next year Montana hopes to find as able a captain in Eddie Chinske, the heady little quarterback and ground-gainer who has so ably filled Bill Kelly's position.

A victory over the Montana Bobcats does not make a successful football season for the Grizzlies, but it comes close. As for conference victories, Montana had another bad year but the Grizzly fight was ever present and it was only the lack of competent reserves that kept Montana from placing among the leaders. Major Milburn, coaching his second year at the University, developed a line that was considered by some coaches to be the best on the coast from tackle to tackle. The backfield was fast and shifty so that the Grizzlies usually held the whip hand throughout the first quarter and well into the second but the superior reserve strength of the opponents, invariably, forged ahead during the final half for a decisive victory.

MOUNT ST. CHARLES, 0; MONTANA, 8.

After trouncing Centerville, an independent team from Butte, the Grizzlies trotted out on Dornblaser field October 1, looked to meet Mount St. Charles for the season's opener. The Saints had the greatest team in their history and were out for state championship honors. For more than three quarters the Grizzlies hammered ineffectually at the Saints forward wall and sent play after play spinning around the ends without a gain. Then, with but seven minutes to play, Eddie Chinske placed the ball within scoring distance by a pretty return of a Saint punt. Three times the Montana backs hit the line with no gain and then a pass, Chinske to Kain, who received over the goal line and the deadlock was broken. A few minutes later Tierman, Grizzly end, broke through and stopped a Hilltopper back of the goal line for two more points.

In the Grizzlies first conference game, the Washington State College team, using a straight plunging and running attack, pounded its way to a most decisive victory. Clark Whitecomb, giant tackle and one of the mainstays of the Montana line, was on the bench nursing injuries and it was partly through this loss that the Grizzly forward wall was helpless before the constant hammering of the Cougar backs.

Except for the first quarter when Montana made a number of threats to score, the Washington team was never in any danger. The first quarter ended with both teams scoreless, the second quarter the Cougars gained a seven point lead, and then the powerful Washington machine, gradually gaining strength, plowed through Montana almost at will, chalking up 28 points in the last half.

WASHINGTON, 32; MONTANA, 0.

The dark cloud of defeat from the University of Washington, was all that marred Montana's 1927 Homecoming. The brilliant form of the Grizzlies in the first quarter buoyed up the spirits of the Montana supporters and the bulky Washington line seemed unable to stop the tri-colored offense. For the greater part of the first half the ball was in Husky territory. With but five minutes left the Huskies took to the air and two long heaves from the accurate hand of Tesreau and Washington registered its first touchdown. A few minutes later another brace of passes from the Washington back were good for another touchdown. The Huskies led by 12 points at half-time and, though the Grizzlies gave a hard battle, they were unable to score or check the visitors and the game closed, Washington five touchdowns in the lead.

IDAHO, 42; MONTANA, 6.

The Grizzly eleven played its third conference game with the Vandals of the University of Idaho at Moscow. Once more they suffered defeat for, while Montana threw many passes in an attempt to score, all were in vain and the powerful and heavy Vandal team plunged and tore savagely at the Grizzly line netting themselves six touchdowns to Montana's one. Tom Davis, carried the ball over the goal line for Montana's only score while Eddie Chinsko and Sam Kain proved themselves to be good ground gainers.

The Vandals did not forsake straight football once during the game but maintained a steady battering attack at the Montana line which was already weakened by the loss of Bob Tiernan, Clark Whitecomb, and Curtis Brittenham who were kept out of the game on account of injuries.

CALIFORNIA, 33; MONTANA, 13.

After two weeks' rest, the Grizzly squad journeyed south to play the Golden Bears of California University. The Bears were favored to win by an overwhelming score but the Grizzlies proved to be very much underrated and only after a powerful scoring effort in the last quarter were the Californians able to chalk up a victory. The Gilded Bruin had given much attention to the rumor that Montana was sending down "eleven football suits" as the sport writers expressed it. California was considering the game in the light of a scrimmage but were surprised and somewhat worried in the third quarter when Montana was holding the big end of a 13 to 12 score. Reserve strength proved to be the deciding factor in the struggle and the just as capable substitutes who replaced the regulars were too much for the Grizzlies.

GONZAGA, 0; MONTANA, 0.

The Saturday following the California game, the Grizzlies further proved that their previous conference engagements had been played while in a mid-season slump when the Montanans, with some of their best players on the bench, held the Gonzaga Bulldogs to a 0 to 0 tie. The Gonzaga contest was therefore not a fair indication of the Grizzlies strength for Coach Milburn used substitutes freely and saved his stellar performers for the coming game in Butte when the University was to meet the Bobcats of Montana State. The game was also staged on a muddy field and although the Montana squad showed a marked superiority in yardage gains, they could not manage to put the ball over the goal line. The greater part of the time the ball see-sawed back and forth in mid-field with neither team able to gain the upper hand.

The last game of the season was with the University's age-old rival, the Bobcats of MSC. The Bobcats, with one of the strongest teams in history, came to Butte, with high hopes and plenty of confidence. The first half was decidedly in their favor and the ball was in University territory most of the time. The second half saw the Grizzlies unleash their scoring attack, with the Bobcats on the defensive. The third quarter, although the University team had threatened time after time, brought no scoring. Then Chinske returned an Aggie punt to their 41-yard line. A pass to Kain netted 28 yards. Another failed, but still another was attempted. This time it sailed over the Bobcats heads and dropped safely into the arms of Clarence Coyle who stepped over the goal line for a touchdown and another University year.

Freshman Football

Cub football prospects turned out in large numbers at Coach Adams' first call and with a wealth of material in sight the Cub enthusiasts were looking forward to an undefeated season. The Frosh had material for a heavy line and a fast backfield.

The first game was played with the Missoula high school eleven and the Cubs pounded away for an easy victory, playing only the lighter men. Shortly after the Missoula game Muhliek, one of the best possibilities, and Walker, one of the mainstays of the line, were ruled ineligible. Lyons, an all-state fullback from Billings, was out of the game with a broken ankle and the team had to be completely changed for the Idaho game the following Saturday. Owing to a 91 yard run by Tom Moore, speedy Cub half, and clever line blocking that added another touchdown the Cubs were able to hold a one-point margin over Idaho at the half but in the second half the Cubs felt the absence of weight in the line and with comparative ease Idaho hammered the forward wall for a 31-14 victory.

The next Saturday the Frosh squad left for WSC where they again felt the eligibility rulings for the Washington Frosh went over the tackle and around the ends almost at will and won 58 to 0. The Montana Bobkittens were the next opponents. The game was played in Bozeman and the Bobkittens took the breaks and won, 25 to 0. The Bobkitten game closed the Cub schedule with three defeats out of four starts. The men receiving numerals were Marvin Amick, James Brophy, Clyde Carpenter, Bob Davis, Phil Dunean, James Holmes, Tom Moore, John Page, Russell Peterson, Stewart Prather, Charles Rathert, Frank Thrailkill, Dave Williams, Clarence Muhliek and Carl Walker.

Sam Kam and Cloyse Overturf shared honors as captains of Montana's 1928 basketball squad. Joint captaincy is practically a new idea in the world of sport and this was the first experiment of this kind at Montana. However, the system proved to be a decided success, probably because Sam and Cloyse played such an outstanding game together and were so nearly equal in strength. Both men were playing their last season for the University. A season that was to top off a brilliant athletic career for both of them. Under these two men Montana has enjoyed one of its most successful basketball seasons.

Louis Wendt was elected captain of the 1929 Grizzly basketball team. Wendt has for the last two seasons played an outstanding game at guard and justly deserves the honor of piloting next year's squad.

1928 Varsity Basketball

Building around three lettermen, Coach Stewart developed a basketball quint that was one of the best to represent Montana in a number of years. Kain and Overturf, joint captains and Louie Wendt, letterman from last season were the only veterans on the 1928 squad. The club was reinforced considerably by the addition of Eddie Chinske, a clever floorman and a good shot and by a wealth of material from last year's Cub team.

Kain, Overturf and Chinske proved to be a scoring combination that broke fast and often. Kain was honored with the center position on the All Northern Division team. Wendt played a steady, close guarding game which won for him, captain-elect of the 1929 team. Bob Rankin and Feet Lewis, first year men, proved to be mighty fine guards and who should be a bulwark to Montana's team in the next two years.

THE SEASON.

A barnstorming trip, planned for the holidays, dwindled down to a two-game series in Butte and it was with these games that Coach Stewart and the Grizzlies opened the season. The Grizzlies broke even on this trip, winning from an independent team and losing to the Montana School of Mines. Following these games the squad traveled to Spokane and for the first time in history won two straight games from Gonzaga University: 28 to 18 and 43 to 25.

In the first conference game Montana broke fast and often to trouble WSC 40 to 16. This was the Grizzlies' first game on the home floor and left the fans with high hopes for a winning team. Overturf, Chinske, and Rankin broke into the scoring column consistently.

Immediately after the WSC victory the squad left for Bozeman to play the "Aggie Wonder Team" and suffered their worst defeat of the season, 77 to 26. A return game found the Grizzlies quicker to take the breaks but the lanky Bobcat center, Frank Ward, was too much for them and the game was another Bobcat victory, 52 to 39. The same week-end the squad left on a two-game trip. The first was with Idaho, and in their miniature gymnasium the Grizzlies were completely lost. Idaho won by a 48 to 29 score. In the second game the Mountanians managed to retrieve some of their lost prestige when they again defeated WSC, this time, 35 to 30. The game was nip and tuck throughout with the Grizzlies usually holding the edge. On a three-game trip to the coast, the Huskies were too much and Montana was defeated, 44 to 24.

Two nights later the Grizzlies were mised out, 36 to 33, by Oregon and in the third game, with OSC, the Aggies percentage system worked advantageously for a 31 to 12 victory. The remaining games were played at home with Washington the first invader. Accurate shooting, speed, and excellent floor work spelled defeat for Montana, 51 to 31. OSC was the next visitor but this time their percentage system failed to function under Grizzly guarding and they lost in a close game, 44 to 43. In the next, Oregon managed to slip around the Grizzlies in the final minutes of play for a 32 to 30 victory. This materially lowered the team's standing but in the next game the Grizzlies won from Idaho, 38 to 35, which placed Montana in a triple tie with Idaho and OSC for third place in the Northern Division.

Freshman Basketball

The 1928 Fresh basketball team enjoyed a successful season judging both in games won, where they had a perfect record and in the development of future Varsity material. Twenty five aspirants for positions answered Coach Adams' first call and among them were all-state and all-conference men. Billy Roblffs and Cooper showed promise as forwards while Lackwood used his height to good advantage at center. Rathert and Thrailkill were the most promising of the guards. Lyons and Lewis, all-state men from Billings, were out of the lineup most of the season on account of injuries but managed to get into suits for the last trip and proved to be a good scoring combination.

The Cub hoopsters opened the season with Loyola high school, easily taking the contest, 32 to 24. In their second game they ran wild to defeat a classy Roman team, 44 to 24. Following the Roman fray the Cubs played a two-game series with Billings Polytechnic. In this series the Cubs showed a marked superiority and won, 37 to 24, and 40 to 29. Another game was played with Loyola high school, this time the Parish quint was defeated 29 to 23 in one of the closest contests of the year. To finish the season the Cubs made the trip to Butte to tangle with Butte Central. With Lyons and Lewis back in the lineup the University men ran wild to pile up 33 points to their opponents 23, keeping their slate clean of defeats and piling up 225 points to their opponents 137.

Eight players were awarded numerals at the close of the season. These men are: Ray Lyons, Billy Roblffs, Johnny Lewis, Delbert Cooper, Glen Lackwood, Bill Rathert, Frank Thrailkill and Emmett Carey.

The 1927 Varsity

At the outset of the 1927 track season the Grizzly hopes were somewhat darkened by the Garden City climatic conditions. The weather man kept the sun pretty well hidden with continued cold spells and frequent snow falls until late in the season. Despite the lack of suitable weather for getting in shape, the track squad managed to pull out of the season with a fine record. The team lost only one dual meet and placed high in the Seattle relays, being with Washington for second honors.

Under the guidance of Arnie Gillette, their captain and distance runner par excellence, the squad put up some splendid exhibitions of fight and endurance, putting Montana on a par with the larger schools in the conference.

The 1927 Season

When the annual quadrangular meet at Spokane between Idaho, Gonzaga, WSC, and Montana was called off, because of poor weather conditions, Montana was deprived of a much desired chance to get in a little practice with outside competition before the Seattle relays. However, Coach Stewart and his squad left for the Relay Carnival with plenty of determination and fight. The squad tied for second place with Washington. Lanky Spaulding and Arnie Gillette were the outstanding stars for Montana, Spaulding setting a new record of 15.6 for the high hurdles while Gillette, anchor man for Montana in the 4-mile relay, overcome a 50-yard lead to win the event by 20 yards. A dual meet with Idaho was next and Montana scored an easy 79 to 51 victory.

The following meet was with Montana State. The Grizzlies got off for a perfect start early in the meet, taking a clean sweep in three events, and kept a big lead throughout the remainder of the contest, winning by a score of 81½ to 41½. Losing the relay after the meet had been pretty well salted away, the Grizzlies went down to defeat in their next meet, 68 to 62. WSC was the conqueror, although Montana took 10 firsts to their opponents 5. At the annual Northern Division meet at Corvallis, Montana placed third. Gillette, Jake Miller, and Lanky Spaulding won firsts in their respective events. Gillette and Spaulding were sent to the Pacific Coast Intercollegiate meet at Los Angeles. Although Gillette was nosed out in the 2-mile by Cleaver of Idaho, the Grizzly runner was decidedly off form. His record for the event set in 1927 was not broken by the Idaho man.

The 1928 Varsity

The prospects for the 1928 track season were somewhat dimmed again this year by poor weather conditions. As a result, the squad had no little difficulty in getting into shape for the first meets. The candidates, under the careful direction of Coach Stewart, made good progress whenever the opportunity was afforded and before the opening of the season the Grizzly hopes began to rise. Davis, Woodworth, Hill, and Stevlingson rounded out fine in the dashes. Captain Adams, Tysel, McCarthy, Hanson, K. Davis, Curtiss Martin, and Polch took care of the distances, and Miller approached 13 feet in the pole vault. The team was a little weak in the field events but not enough to worry about.

The 1928 Season

Immediately after the close of the winter quarter, Coach Stewart sent out his call for tracksters and by the end of a week had 48 men reporting each night. It was a full week later before the men could work out on the cinder track and even then the weather was too cold and damp to work out effectually. But when the weather broke the Grizzlies quickly rounded into shape. Montana's 1928 track schedule called for two dual meets, one with the Bobcats of MSC at Missoula and the other with the Vandals of Idaho at Moscow. Besides these dual meets the Grizzlies entered the Quadrangular meet at Spokane, the Washington Relay carnival at Seattle and were also hosts to the Pacific Coast Conference meet and Northwestern Olympic tryouts.

The first meet on the Grizzly schedule was the Quadrangular at Spokane, April 25, when the squad tested its wares against Gonzaga, Idaho, and WSC. Montana has always been a strong contender in this meet in past years and as most of these teams labor under the same difficulties in weather as the University, the Grizzlies had an even break to place high. Following the Quadrangular meet the team journeyed to Seattle to participate in the Seattle relays. Here they competed against some of the strongest clubs in the West. A dual meet with the State College Aggies at Missoula was next on the program. The Grizzlies have won this meet for many years. The week following the Aggie meet the squad met the Idaho Vandals, the contest being held in Moscow this year. June 1 and 2 was devoted to entertaining the members of the Pacific Coast Conference at Missoula. The Pacific Coast Conference meet is one of the biggest in the West and was arranged to be run off at Missoula through the efforts of Coach J. W. Stewart, the University's representative to the Coast Conference meeting at Portland. Coach Stewart is also track and basketball coach at the University. The main drawing card for the meet was Montana's track which is probably one of the best cinder paths in the West.

Eight schools, including the members of the Southern Division of the Coast Conference competed in the meet. These schools were the University of California, the University of Southern California, the University of Oregon, Oregon State College, the University of Washington, Washington State College, the University of Idaho, and the University of Montana. Missoula was also designated as the official place for the Olympic trials of the Northwestern states for the 1928 Olympic games. The tryouts were given to Missoula by Maury Dunn, official AAU representative to these states.

Cross Country

Coach Stewart and a squad of six men made the trip to Pullman, Washington, last fall to attend the Northern Division cross-country meet of the Pacific Coast Conference. The squad hoped to duplicate the performance of the year before when, led by Gillette, the Montana team took first honors. Three men, K. Davis, Tysel, and McCarthy, were the only veterans left from the championship squad. Added to these men were George Martin, a distance man for Montana in 1925; Barks Adams, captain of the 1928 track squad; and Frank Curtiss, a promising athlete from the 1927 Cub team. A week of bad weather at the end of the training period made it necessary to call off the final tryouts at the University. A short time before this the men had run over a two-mile course and it was with these results that Coach Stewart picked Montana's entries in the meet. In the run at Pullman, Montana placed two men among the first ten which gave the Grizzlies third place among the four teams entered in the meet. George Martin and Kenneth Davis were the men who placed for the tri-color squad, Davis placing fifth and Martin sixth. As only five men are allowed to enter the race from one school Barks Adams did not compete although he made the trip. The four schools that entered scored as follows:

University of Washington	36
Washington State College	43
University of Montana	50
University of Idaho	81

The lowest scores are the highest in rating of teams. The University of Idaho only placed one man, Chiskolin, who took tenth.

Freshman Track

Although Coach Adams did not expect to have as well a balanced Club squad this year as he had in 1927, the team proved to be a close runner-up. Many of the prospective Freshman track athletes had to be turned away because of the lack of equipment, but the turnout was exceptionally large just the same. The squad was somewhat reinforced early in the season by a number of athletes who had proved their worth at the Interscholastic Meets. Among these men were Tom Moore of Philippsburg who holds the state record for the century and who took the 220 yard dash at the 1927 meet; John Page, also of Philippsburg, who took both the shot and discus events at the last Interscholastic; Jacobsen of Missoula, holder of the state record in the low hurdles, and Lockwood of Missoula, a good performer in the field events. Muldiek and Walker, two heavy athletes from out of the state, were also a great help in the weights.

The Fresh athletes were put through their paces at the start of the season to get a lineup on their best events. The squad was then put under the direct supervision of Coach Adams who took great pains in giving them the right sort of training with special attention given to correct form, as many of the men will be Varsity possibilities next year. Coach Stewart, Varsity coach, also kept an eye on the first year men and gave them pointers from time to time. A keen spirit of competition was manifested among the athletes for the Stewart cup which was given to the Fresh making the most outstanding mark during the season. Last year this cup was awarded to Don Stevlingson for his record in the low hurdles. The squad showed up to good advantage in the meet with the local high schools, setting some very good marks for future Fresh to shoot at.

At the outset of the 1927 baseball season, Coach Milburn found the prospects none too good. Two veterans were back to bolster up the outfield but the infield was left with wide gaps by the previous graduating class. For pitchers, Rafferty and Brown were the only experienced men left but everything was not as bad as it seemed and before the close of the season Coach Milburn had developed a fairly good ball club, although the breaks were always against them. The Grizzlies were not a hard hitting team when it came to batting and when they did hit were hampered by the fact that they could not launch them.

The Grizzlies opened their season by taking four out of five games from the Fort Missoula nine. The first games were marked by numerous errors and hard hitting on the part of both teams. Following the Fort contests the University played two games with Idaho, losing both encounters, 4 to 3 and 6 to 3, largely through their inability to hit. On a four-game trip the next week, the squad dropped two games to WSC and two more to their former competitors, the Vandals. All four games were marked by good pitching but poor support. WSC invaded the Grizzly home field for the next two games and took both encounters. In a two game series with Bozeman the University nine won one and lost one and inclement weather forced them to cancel the playoff.

The 1928 Varsity

Baseball enthusiasts were somewhat worried at the outset of the 1928 season when both the weather man and the ineligibility rulings seemed to be working against the Grizzly squad. Coach Milburn managed to keep seven lettermen from last year eligible and with a wealth of new recruits and a little warm weather the University's hopes took a decided rise. The squad was weak in the outfield at the beginning of the season but had a strong pitching staff, and possibilities for a good infield. The pitching staff with Captain Rafferty, Brown, Brewer and Coyle, as the outstanding pitchers, was unusually good. Coach Milburn developed his infield from regulars of last year's squad and a few new men while the outfield had to be taken care of by new recruits.

The 1928 Season

Montana's baseball schedule for the 1928 season called for four games on the home field and six games on foreign soil not counting the post season games with the Fort Missoula nine. The first games were scheduled with the University of Idaho at Missoula May 4 and 5. The following week end the Grizzly squad embarked on its six game trip playing Washington State College May 11 and 12, the University of Idaho again the 14th and 15th, and finishing the trip off with two games with Gonzaga University at Spokane the 16th and 17th. May 21 and 22 the nine from Washington State College invaded the Grizzly field for two games. Pre-season dopesters gave Washington State, Northern Division champions last year, the edge for division honors.

BASKETBALL

Basketball enjoys a predominating place among the sports in intramural athletics. Interclass basketball, which is usually a close race because of the fact it is open to Varsity prospects and lettermen, is probably the most popular of the hoop contests. This year the interclass title was won by the Sophomore class.

Interchurch basketball holds a widespread interest due to the fact there is keen rivalry between the different groups. It offers a wider field for the novice than the intercollege. The Episcopal squad won the tourney this year with a perfect record for the season.

In the intercompany race between the companies in the University ROTC unit, Company B won all of its contests handily to take the pennant. The intercollege tourney had a long successful season with the Business Ads far out in front of the other teams at the finish. The other places in the standings of the clubs were hotly contested, with three tied for fifth and two tied for third. The Forestry School squad was runner-up.

MISCELLANEOUS CONTESTS

In the miscellaneous intramural events Frank Curtiss, prospective distance man for the 1928 track squad, won the medal for first place in the cross-country run.

Drawings for the 1927 golf championship were made last spring. The contestants were to play nine holes for the preliminary matches and eighteen in the finals. At the end of the playoff Mullendorff was declared the winner of the Class A championship while Liz Lee won the novice award.

Vic Stepanzoff won the 1927 men's singles championship in tennis from a large field at a tournament held last spring. In the 1927 horseshoe tourney, Shorpy Huber proved to be the best at putting the iron around the peg and won the medal offered for this event.

The annual Free Throw Contest which is open to all students of the University drew a big turnout from the Physical Education classes. Although no one made a possible, some high scores were turned in. Bob Davis, Fresh athlete, won this event with a score of 83 out of 100.

M CLUB TOURNAMENT

One of the largest crowds in the history of the tournament attended the M Club boxing and wrestling card that was put on last spring. The tourney, which was celebrating its sixth anniversary, was probably the best exhibition of fighting put on by the M men so far. All of the events were good.

Ken Davis, undisputed middleweight champion of last year, further showed his worth when he won his bout from Joe Lynch, via a technical knockout. This bout won for Davis the silver loving cup for putting on the best exhibition during the evening. Frank Curtiss successfully defended his lightweight championship by gaining a decision over Pete Cerutti in a fast bout. In the welter weight division Steve Hanson and George Grover battled to a four-round draw. Bob Davis won the light heavyweight championship, and John McCann the junior lightweight crown.

In the wrestling bouts Walford, Polich and Gaty proved to be too much for their opponents and won on straight falls. The fencing bout between Newton Chute and Malcolm Shearer was an easy victory for Chute, 73 to 27.

INTERCOMPANY TRACK, 1927

The intercompany indoor track meet, held early in the spring quarter last year, proved to be an easy victory for the Company A team. The meet was held too early in the season to give any indication as to the possible strength of the teams but it did bring to light some promising material. George Woodworth and Don Stevlingson tied for individual honors in this meet.

Later in the year Company A again proved to have the edge on the other companies in track sports when they won the intercompany outdoor track and field meet by a wide margin. The teams scored as follows: Company A, first, 55 2/5 points; Company C, second, 39 2/5 points; Company B, third, 31 1/5 points. Excellent time was made in many of the events, the most outstanding being made by Hill in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, which he ran in 10.1 and 22.5 respectively; Stevlingson in the low hurdles, 25.6; Nelson in the high jump, 5 feet 10 inches; and Tysel in the half mile, 2:03.

The Stewart trophy, a silver loving cup for the most outstanding record set during the Freshman track season, was won by Stevlingson for his time in the low hurdles.

RIFLERY

The University's ROTC rifle team showed a decided improvement this year. Rising from a last place team in 1927 to fifth place this year among the fifteen teams competing in this Corps Area match. Victor Hay won individual honors in this match with the highest score in the three shoots. This match also determined the winners of the four medals given for high scores in the four positions. In the prone position John Fallman took first place honors, the sitting position medal went to Donald Barbank, kneeling to Frank Alling, while Victor Hay won the standing award. Donald Barbank won the shoot for the M. M. Trophy cup winning over Edwin Koch who has held this trophy for the past two years.

The team also competed in the Hearst Trophy shoot in which Edwin Koch took the honors for the Montana team. By reason of their score in the Corps Area match the team also won the right to compete in the National Inter-collegiate match.

SWIMMING

The 1928 swimming meet was probably the most successful meet of its kind in the history of the University. The meet is a comparatively new thing at the University but is fast growing in popularity. This year individual honors in the meet were taken by Alvin Manning of Missoula. Manning took three firsts and a second out of the five events. In the 40-yard swim, he equaled the record for the pool at 22.5 seconds. This record was set by Brooke Ricker of Helena in the 1927 meet. In the 80-yard swim Manning scored a comparatively easy victory and in the fancy diving contest gave by far the best exhibition. The 220 yard swim was an exciting affair for of the five men entered only two finished. Philip Duncan of Billings won this event and the applause of the crowd when he made a thrilling spurt at the finish to beat out Manning for first place. In the plunge for distance, James Brophy of Red Lodge set a new record of 43 feet 6 inches. The former record of 43 feet 1 1/2 inches was set by D. W. Nelson in the 1926 meet.

BASEBALL, 1927

Although outnumbered almost two to one, the Foresters won the last game of the intercollegiate baseball series from the Lawyers, 6 to 5, and took the pennant for first place. The deciding game was close all the way through and could have been anyone's game until the last. The Lawyers had a weak battery and as a result the Foresters were treated to many bases on balls. Three of the walks being converted into scores.

In the playoff for the intercompany championship in baseball last year, Company A triumphed over Company C and annexed another banner to its list of trophies. Company A had a fast fielding team as well as a long list of hard hitters. Intramural baseball enjoyed one of its most successful seasons last year as the turnout for the teams was exceptionally large. Almost every eligible man in the University played in at least one game of the series. The underclassmen were especially active in this sport as most of the games were played on the ROTC drill grounds bordering the men's residence hall.

SUCCER

Soccer was introduced as a major sport for the first time this fall under the direction of Mrs. Harriet Graham Wood. An interclass tournament was held in which three teams competed. The Sophomores won the tournament in hotly contested games. The new sport was a great success and because of the amount of enthusiasm shown soccer will become one of the major sports of the Women's Athletic Association.

SWIMMING

Swimming was one of the major sports of the first athletic association and with the advantages offered by the new pool in the men's gymnasium is now the foremost sport for the co-ed.

Telegraphic meets were held this year with leading Universities as well as a class meet. As a result of keen competition many former records of the University were broken and at the close of the season the Varsity coed team was chosen.

Physical education was organized in 1903 but it was not until 1917, under the direction of Rhoda Baxter, that a definite step was taken. Owing to meagre facilities, the University at first had a difficult time to maintain the Department. With the erection of the new gymnasium in 1922 the women had entire use of the old gymnasium and with the addition of new apparatus physical education for women has progressed each year.

Mary Laux and Mrs. Harriet Graham Wood are the present heads of the Physical Education Department. The Women's Athletic Association, the awarding of trophies, interclass and intramural athletics for women, and field day for high school girls, held Interscholastic Week, are included under the supervision of this Department.

RIFLERY

Greater enthusiasm, keener competition, and better marksmanship was shown in riflery this year than in former years. In the elimination contest for teams, twenty girls fired and the ten high were awarded points in W.A.A. The final match resulted in a tie between Blumenthal and Vinal, each shooting 198. In firing off the tie Vinal won the match and was awarded the annual McLeod Cup. The work of the rifle team is carried on by officers of the ROTC in cooperation with the Physical Education Department.

BASKETBALL

Greater interest was shown in basketball than in previous years and a great many girls took part in this sport. The Sophomores won the interclass tournament after a close contest with the Juniors. Members of class teams were awarded numerals and points in WAA. At the close of the season the following were chosen on the all-star team: Unarose Flannery, Lazella Burkett, Eithlyn Fowler, Clarice Shaw, Mary Walker, Pearl Ladiges, Freda Van Duzer, Ruth Nickey, manager.

BASEBALL, 1927

With the addition of a girls athletic field and a diamond of their own, baseball as a major sport of the Athletic Association is rapidly growing, with more enthusiasm being shown each year. An interesting interclass tournament was held late last spring in which the Fresh team was victorious.

At the end of the season, after many exciting games between classes, a University all-star team was chosen.

TENNIS, 1927

With the completion of four concrete courts on the girls athletic field, instruction in tennis was added to the curriculum and tennis became a major sport in WAA. Under the managership of Stella Skulason and class managers an interclass tournament was started but not completed because of unfavorable weather. Liz Maury, Frances McGrath, Catherine Leary, Mary Cardell, and Betty Smith were members of the all star team.

TRACK, 1927

The track meet was held last June in connection with the First Annual Field Day and was a greater success than in former years. Freshman and Sophomore members of all regular classes were compelled to participate while upperclassmen took part to defend their respective class titles. Events were held in races, hurdles, javelin and discus throwing, broad and high jumping and relay races. The meet was won by the Frosh.

In 1904, President O. J. Craig and Professor Robert Sibly organized Silent Sentinel. The purpose of the organization was to honor deserving men and to furnish them a means of serving Montana University better. The organization was kept secret until President Duniway took charge. Due to his opposition to secret clubs the purpose of the organization was made known and the club then disbanded.

Silent Sentinel was revived in 1921. The organization was not secret, as it had formerly been. The members are tapped from the Junior class by Dean Stone at the track meet SOS. Members are chosen for their services to the University and the honor is one of the highest of the school.

The object of Mortar Board is to train University women in scholarship, service, and leadership. The wearers of the black and gold mortar board maintain the ideals and traditions of the campus and are constantly engaged in service for the University.

The local chapter, Penetralia, was founded on the campus in 1914 and was last spring granted a charter by Mortar Board, national honorary senior women's organization. Each year twelve girls of the junior class are chosen for membership. They are selected on the basis of promotion, service, and loyalty to the interests of the University.

The chapters in the sixth regional district of the national Mortar Board organization include the University of Nebraska, University of Kansas, University of Missouri, Montana State College, the University of Montana, and the University of Washington at St. Louis, Missouri.

Bear Paw, men's Sophomore honorary organization, is the traditional law enforcing body of the University campus. Not only are they the wardens of the campus but it is through their activities that the University has a medium by which to meet and welcome, as well as to entertain all visitors on the campus. They extend the courtesies of the University to all visiting athletes during the Interscholastic track meet.

Silent Sentinel selected the first group of Bear Paws on November 5, 1920. Each year twenty members are chosen, from the second year class by Silent Sentinel, on a basis of outstanding service and commendable work performed during their freshman year.

Tanan, established in 1924, is the women's honorary Sophomore organization at the University. The Tanans and the Bear Paws in maintaining Montana traditions, make provisions for the entertainment of contestants and visitors during Interscholastic Week and other similar occasions. Another important activity of this group is meeting new arrivals at the State University each fall and assisting them through the difficulties of registration.

Tanans are chosen on the same recommendations as Bear Paws, for exceptional ability in different fields of endeavor as expressed during the Freshman year. Tanans form a committee of welcome for women visitors and guests of the University throughout the year.

Kappa Tau, local honorary scholarship fraternity, was organized on the campus in 1916. The Northwest Province of Phi Beta Kappa is considering granting Kappa Tau a charter into the national organization. The Rev. Oscar M. Voorhies, national secretary of Phi Beta Kappa, visited the University of Montana campus last summer and reported very favorably upon scholarship conditions existing here.

If the various chapters of the Northwest Province should approve the granting of a charter to Kappa Tau, final action will be taken at the next national convention of Phi Beta Kappa, which will be this summer.

Our chapter of Delta Psi Kappa was organized on this campus in 1920 by a group of physical education majors who wished to promote the interest and welfare of physical education among college women. This year it was decided to also include in membership, students minoring in the department and a few Seniors particularly active in athletics.

On February 12, twenty-two members were taken into the organization, initiation being held in the radio room of the Little Theater. Following the initiation a banquet was held at the Chimney Corner at which Sammie Graham, '27, acted as toastmistress.

Gamma Eta chapter of Kappa Psi, national pharmacy fraternity, was installed on the Montana campus, June 4, 1920, taking the place of the local Phi Chi, which had been established here in 1916. Membership in Kappa Psi is determined by scholarship rating and credits in Pharmacy.

W. Bruce Philip, grand regent of Kappa Psi, visited the local chapter in February while on a tour, inspecting all chapters in the Northern Province. In commenting on the Pharmacy School here, he said it compared very favorably with the larger schools in the east.

The purpose of Phi Delta Phi, international honorary legal fraternity, is to promote scholarship, higher legal standards and better professional ethics. The local chapter received its charter May 31, 1922, and membership in this chapter is restricted to all law majors who have at least thirty six credits in the Law School, with not less than a "C" average in the entire law course.

The annual banquet for the pledges of Phi Delta Phi was held this year at the Florence hotel with Marshall Murray acting as toastmaster.

Sigma Delta Chi, men's international journalism fraternity, was the first national professional fraternity on the campus. The Montana chapter was installed January 19, 1915.

At the national convention of Sigma Delta Chi held at the University of Kansas last fall the local chapter was given honorable mention for its work during the past year. At the national convention the previous year the Montana Chapter was awarded the national Efficiency cup, the highest honor paid by the fraternity.

Theta Sigma Phi, women's national honorary journalism fraternity, was chartered at Montana in April, 1946. The organization has varied interests. News releases of interesting attractions that took place on the University campus this spring were sent out to all Montana high schools. Members of the organization have written a series of feature stories on their respective home towns and surroundings for the purpose of raising money for the chapter. Sale of this year's student directory was handled by Theta Sigma Phi. "Dirty Sockettes," published on Hi-Jinx night, and "Campus Ravings," annual Montana razz tradition, are edited by the organization.

"Marketing the Manuscript," an address by Mrs. C. H. Clapp on February 5, was the first of a series of addresses to Theta Sigma Phi this year following out the plan of a series of Matrix tables adopted by the organization.

Sigma Alpha Iota, women's national music fraternity, takes a prominent part in musical activities on this campus. The local was organized in 1925 by members of the School of Music faculty and was known as the Clef Club. The purpose was to create further interest in music and the club was granted a charter in the national organization because of its work in this line.

On October 27, 1927, members of Sigma Alpha Iota gave a banquet honoring Miss Hazel Ritchey, national president of the fraternity who made a two-day visit on the University campus.

Associated Women Students is an organization composed of all women students enrolled in the State University and has for its purpose the legislation and enforcement of all rules governing the Greeks on the campus. During the school year AWS sponsors a number of social functions. In the fall the Co-ed Prom, which is a social gathering of all the University women, is given under the auspices of AWS. Stunts are given and prizes awarded. The Co-ed Formal in the winter quarter of each year is another social gathering sponsored by that organization. Women invite the men to this dance and it is one of the most elaborate functions of the year.

The third principal social activity of AWS is the annual May Fete. This year's Fete was managed by Lillian Bell and was a part of the graduation week exercises. AWS also maintains a loan fund for upperclass women.

The Corbin Hall Club which is formed anew every fall has charge of the social events during the following year. Each year Corbin Hall gives three dances, two of which are formals and the third informal. The first formal was given on October 31, the second formal on February 4, and the third informal on April 14. Two birthday dinners are given for the girls during the nine months, the first one in November and the other in April. The girls are divided into two groups, those having birthdays during the first half of the year and those having birthdays the last half. The last event of the fall quarter is a Christmas party given the Sunday evening before the close of the quarter. Only the girls take part in this, presents are exchanged, and the evening closes with the singing of "College Chorus."

Twice a year the two halls, Corbin Hall and South Hall, exchange guests. Every Monday evening the girls meet and at these meetings talks are given by prominent women. For the first time in the history of the organization Sunday evening teas were served. During the winter quarter they invited the sororities and fraternities and the last tea was given in honor of the members of the faculty.

Until last year the Debate Union required that for membership, students must have participated in at least one intercollegiate debate, but was changed this year to allow all those interested in debate to become members. During the first two quarters meetings were held every two weeks and some problem of public interest was discussed.

Each year the Debate Union holds a banquet, at which time officers are elected for the following year. In January the Debate Union and Delta Psi Kappa gave a Carnival dance, "A Night in Monte Carlo," and hereafter they expect to make this an annual affair.

All students enrolled in the School of Forestry are members of the Forestry Club. Its purpose is to create a spirit of fellowship and mutual interest in their school as well as to give the students just entering that school an opportunity to understand the scope and function of their department. Bi-weekly meetings are held and the Club arranges programs throughout the year consisting of talks and illustrated lectures by prominent men in forestry.

The big social event of the year put on by the Forestry Club is the Foresters' Ball which took place on February 17 this year. Under the direction of Louis M. Vierhaus, who had charge of the affair this year, the Foresters were hosts to the University at a costume dance given at the men's gymnasium.

Cash prizes were given to those wearing the best costumes. The gymnasium was converted into a forest, fir and cedar boughs lined the walls and ceiling and a large painting of snow-capped mountains and a big moon added to the sylvan touch. "Rangers' Paradise," a room adjoining the ball room, was another replica of a forest scene.

The function of Interfraternity Council is to act as a governing body with general control over the men's Greek-letter organizations. Rushing regulations and interfraternity athletic and social events are handled through this body. The council is composed of two delegates from each social fraternity on the campus, with the exception of Sigma Chi.

The Interfraternity formal is the big social event of the year sponsored by that organization. This year Lee Merrill, Sidney McCarthy, and Donald Blakeslee were on the committee in charge of the formal. The program consisted of fourteen straight dances, with special feature dances by students of a dancing school in Missoula.

The local chapter of Newman Club, national organization of Catholic students, was founded on the Montana campus in October, 1915. Formerly known as the Catholic Students' Association, the group now has a membership of nearly one hundred and fifty members, enrolled from both the student body and the faculty.

It has for its purpose the promotion of better acquaintance among persons of the Catholic faith on the campus and the encouragement of closer relationship and understanding between the Catholic and non-Catholic men and women.

Meetings of the Club are held the first Sunday of each month in the parish hall at St. Anthony's church, one of the two Catholic churches in Missoula. At each of these gatherings a breakfast is served to the members and from time to time special speakers are called in. Occasionally a special breakfast, or some other social function is given.

North Hall Club was organized for the purpose of securing some means by which the new students entering college can best adjust themselves to the new conditions of life. The Club also has for its purpose the creation of some means by which social entertainments can be given and in this manner give the new students some opportunity of meeting each other in a social way.

The fall and winter formal dances were among the most delightful events of the school year. Two formal dinners were given in honor of the girls who celebrated a birthday during the school year.

The officers of the North Hall Club were elected in the fall and worked under the supervision of Mrs. Theodore Brantley and her leaders who have had a year's experience or more in dormitory life. The duty of the leaders and officers was to direct and advise the new girls and to promote harmony and friendship throughout the hall.

North Hall, built four years ago, accommodates one hundred and eight women. Its occupants are subject to AWS rules and the supervision of Dean of Women, Harriet Rankin Sedman.

The Press Club is an organization composed of all students majoring in Journalism. It was organized in 1914 shortly after Journalism courses were admitted into a separate school at this University. It is the purpose of the Club to present interesting lectures dealing with matters of journalistic importance and in this manner giving the students in the school an opportunity of hearing from varied sources the needs and desires of their chosen profession.

Traditional social functions held each year in honor of Dean Stone are the Press Club banquet and Dean Stone night. This year the traditional banquet was held at the Hotel Margaret in Bonner and invitations were issued to the Deans of all Schools of Journalism in the United States, to prominent state newspapermen, and to local alumni of the School of Journalism.

Each year at this banquet The Incinerator, the famous "razz" sheet, furnishes one of the major amusements of the evening. This year The Incinerator staff was composed of Elizabeth Maury, Martha Dunlap, Curtis Brittenham, Sallie Maclay and Walter Sanford.

During the spring quarter the other traditional social function is held in the form of a picnic. Dean Stone Night has become one of the cherished memories of the students in the School of Journalism.

The purpose of the South Hall Club is to provide for its members some means of social entertainment and intellectual advancement as a group. It also has as its object, to provide for an organization that shall guide and control student life at the hall. In 1923 when South Hall was completed the Freshman dormitory plan was adopted. This system is to introduce Freshman students to the new conditions arising between the standards of high school and college, and to give them the fullest opportunity to develop their individuality.

Last fall the South Hall Club was host to the Freshman football men who lived at the dormitory. Members of the team were called upon for speeches and a number of selections was given by the South Hall Orchestra.

The South Hall Club held its first formal during the fall quarter on November 11. The hall was decorated in autumn colors and programs and favors carried out the theme of the decorations. "Golf" was the feature of the second quarter dance given by the Club during the winter quarter and the decorations represented golf links. The programs and favors were miniature golf bags, which further carried out the idea of the scheme. Other social activities during the year were the spring quarter dance the latter part of April and the Annual South Hall banquet at the close of school.

The Women's Athletic Association was officially established on the campus in the fall of 1922 and since that time has taken an active leadership in women's athletics on the University campus.

Swimming, basketball, baseball, track, tennis, soccer, riflery, and hiking are among the activities participated in by members of the organization under appointed managers. This year a new system was adopted whereby girls can secure points during the vacation months by various out-door sports such as horse back riding, roller skating and others.

Under the auspices of the WAA the Dolphin Club was organized this year. Although this Club is not a national organization, various other Universities throughout the country have adopted it as a means of fostering a larger interest among the girls in this line of sport.

The Wesley Club is an organized group whose membership is composed of Methodist students on the campus, carrying on a program of Bible study, social and recreational activities. The Club has been organized for several years and has a membership of over sixty.

A group of eight ladies called patronesses sponsor the social activities of the group and open their homes to various meetings of the Club. The members of the Club sponsor the University Night Church service at which various speakers of prominence speak upon some selected general theme. Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Donaldson have taken a great interest in the Club and have led the Bible Study group.

An annual "venison dinner" in the fall, a New Year's party in the winter, and a reception to graduating students are the social features of the year.

Reverend William L. Young, University pastor, greatly aids in looking after the interest of these students.

Since the beginning of the YWCA on the Montana campus its function has been to give instruction in Bible and missions and to provide for the social life and welfare of the campus. Due to the fact that such a program is now carried on by the departments of the University and other organizations, the Cabinet of the YWCA on this campus in consultation with the local advisory boards and two national secretaries voted that the local YWCA be temporarily discontinued until that time when the campus is ready for the religious educational program now promoted by the national organization.

Miss Stella Seabrook of the national headquarters in New York and Miss Marcia Secher of the division headquarters in Tacoma were the two national secretaries who visited the local chapter. The group plans that the campus will keep in touch with the national YWCA and that a delegate will be sent each year to the Seabrook conference.

Every year the YWCA has held a Christmas party for the poor children of the town at the women's gymnasium. They are entertained with games and stories, toys are distributed, and refreshments served. Food is donated by merchants down town and toys are purchased at reduced rates from various stores. The girls in charge of the affair this year were: Roxie Copenhaver, Lydia Maury, Frances Edge, Mary Kimball, and Josephine McArthur.

The Old Trail

The Old Trail

Wide streaks of light from a twilight sky
Sprinkle over the prairie their tinted dye,
Bright golden rays from the sinking ball
Slowly melt from the plains, the hills and all.

They follow the contour of sage and sand,
In the distance the foothills and sloping land.
To home underground is the prairie dog bent
And the coyote howls with his weird lament.

The light receding points out a track
Where the sand is deep and the bunch grass slack.
Here many before have watched light fail,
As with horses and pack they held the trail—

Friend Trail, that the cowboy knows so well,
Rounding up cattle with quirt and yell:
The trail so many have traveled since then—
Vanguard of Montana, courageous men.

The brightness has gone in the far-off West
And the prairies are left to a short, dark rest,
But beneath the gleam of a moonlight pale
Lies the clear-cut mark of the worn old trail.

Each year the members of the Forestry School edit a Kaimin. Copies are sent to every forest service station in the United States, to all of the logging camps in the Northwest, and copies are given to all Forestry majors and are available to other students. This year four thousand copies were printed, an increase of one thousand over last year.

The Forestry Kaimin, published in book form, contains a combination of photographs, poetry, feature articles and material of an educational nature. Contributions from foresters are solicited, dealing with such subjects as logging, forest products, fire prevention, and lumber manufacturing.

Typically western in its spirit, the 1928 Kaimin contained cuts of forest scenery and campus scenes. Last year the cover presented an American moose, while this year's design was the Forestry emblem—a pine tree in green with an M below in gold. This publication acts as an advertising medium for the Forestry School and a means of disseminating new ideas along the lines of forestry. It is the "Year Book of the Forestry School." Since its first publication in 1915, the Forestry Kaimin has grown from a small pamphlet to a one hundred page booklet.

Began in a creative writing class of seven members in the fall of 1919, the Frontier has developed until now it is attracting national attention. It merits especial interest because of its new policy—that of being open to contributions from any writers about life in the West, but particularly encouraging young Northwest literary aspirants to submit manuscript.

Says the editor of The Literary Digest, "The Frontier has embarked on an extremely interesting and important field." The New York Evening Post, Herschel Brickell commenting, notes, "The influence of an intelligently edited periodical of this sort would be hard to exaggerate. . . . The number of The Frontier before me is highly creditable." Mr. J. T. Frederick, in an editorial in The Midland, Iowa, wrote, "The Frontier seems very clearly destined to immediate and permanent usefulness in the development of American literature along regional lines."

The Montana Alumnus is perhaps the most valuable means of keeping the alumni in touch with the University. Notes on members of each class since 1898 were included in the autumn issue. This number also contained Homecoming news, campus visitors, reports on the growth of the University, Homecoming talks, changes in the Alumni Constitution proposed during Homecoming, and a fiscal report. A complete filing system to improve the efficiency of the Alumni service and particularly to facilitate the editing and mailing of The Montana Alumnus, is now in operation. The winter quarter issue was particularly "newsy": the thirty-fifth Charter Day Anniversary address by President C. H. Clapp, February 17, 1928; "Summer Experiences in a Western School" by Mrs. E. R. Wood, reprinted from The Bulletin of the Kansas State Teachers College of Emporia; "Literature Alive in the Northwest," a story on the new policy and growth of the Frontier, the University literary publication; "Athletics," by Kaimin sports editor, Frank B. Wilson; and class notes.

The Montana Alumnus is published in October, December, March and June by the Alumni Association of the University. The subscription rate is seventy-five cents a year.

Men's Debate

N. B. Beck

Debate Coach

Men's debate this past season was concerned largely with these questions: "Resolved, that American investments in foreign nations should be protected only by the nation in which they are made," "Resolved, that present armed intervention in Nicaragua by the United States is unjustifiable," "Resolved, that armed intervention in Latin America should be condemned," and "Resolved, that in the United States we are attempting to give too many people a college education."

Montana teams, at different times, have taken the affirmative and negative side of these questions. The present tendency to discount the decisions is seen in the nondecision debate, one judge decision, and decision by radio listeners.

The University has sent teams to debate in Idaho, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Washington, Utah and Montana. This is the first time that a University of Montana debating team has gone so far east as Chicago.

Following is the debate schedule for the past year:

November 30—Triangle debate. Montana and University of Idaho team, Edward Pool and Ernest Lake, negative; University of British Columbia at Missoula team, Steinar Larsen and Clarence Wold, affirmative. Question, "Resolved, that American investments in foreign nations should be protected only by the nations in which they are made." Montana lost.

January 17—Gonzaga University, at Missoula team, Russell Smith and Robert Young, negative. Investment question. Montana won.

Women's Debate

N. B. Bick

Debate Coach

Up to this year comparatively little interest has been shown in women's debating at the University of Montana. Whether this slack interest is due to lack of publicity, lack of encouragement, lack of material, or lack of time on the part of women students, is an uncertain question. It seems necessary to foster interest in forensic contests among the women students by offering some tangible inducement. Perhaps the best way to accomplish this would be to arrange out-of-state trips comparable to those taken by men's debating teams.

Tryouts this year were open to all women interested in debate. The aspirants prepared five minute speeches. A team of four members was selected from those who tried out. This team was composed of Lorraine Jones, Pauline Astle, Martha Rose McKenzie, and Mary Brennan.

On March 25 the College of the Pacific of Stockton, California, sent a team of women debaters here to debate Montana's Coed team. The question was "Resolved, that the United States should cease to protect by armed force investments in foreign nations." Montana's team consisting of Lorraine Jones and Pauline Astle, upheld the affirmative. This was a no decision debate.

William Angus

Dramatics

William Angus came to the Montana campus as Dramatic Coach last fall, succeeding Carl Glick who held the position at the University for two seasons. Mr. Angus has succeeded in his work well and has produced a number of plays throughout the school year that met with the hearty approval of the student body. Some of these have been exceptionally difficult and were most creditably staged.

There were three major productions which were produced by the Montana Masquers, under the direction of William Angus. Another major production was staged in cooperation with the School of Music. Throughout the course of the year many one-act plays were given in the Little Theatre and were always met with enthusiasm on the part of the students. Each of the major productions was staged three evenings and capacity crowds filled the Little Theatre on each occasion.

Any student is eligible to tryout for dramatic work and the plays that were put on this year have had a very large number of students taking part in them. The fact that so many individuals have been taking part in this work is proof that the activity is fast developing into one of the most important on the campus.

The Montana Masquers have charge of nearly all of the productions. This organization is composed of students who have shown ability along dramatic lines and serves as a means of furthering interest in this line of work at the University. This group handles the business end of all the plays as well as furnishing individuals who assist Mr. Angus with the production work. The Little Theatre was equipped by this organization and with all surplus moneys they have new equipment and accessories are added. In this way the Little Theatre is constantly progressing from the standpoint of what the director and actor needs in effectively staging plays. It is also a means of keeping the institution up to date as near as possible.

This has been the second season for the Campus Little Theatre and the students have received much enjoyment from their own play-house. The Little Theatre has come to mean a great deal to the students and is fast becoming one of the most important campus institutions.

Varsity Vodvil

Varsity Vodvil, a show given annually by the fraternities and sororities and managed by ASUM, was held this year at the Wilma Theatre, February 25. Although all fraternities and sororities may compete, only fifteen were entered in the tryouts which were held two weeks before the final performance. The seven acts which were chosen were Alpha Xi Delta, Sigma Nu, Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Delta Gamma. Fifteen minutes was allowed each act in the finals and judging was done on a basis of originality of the theme and on the production which consists of costuming, lighting and scenery. The awards, silver trophies, were presented to Phi Delta Theta and Delta Gamma. Frank M. Chichester managed the production and was assisted by Douglas M. Burns and Dean C. Gillespie.

The Delta Gamma act entitled, "Algerienne Tragedienne," portrayed a street scene in Algeria. Beautiful lighting effects and appropriate scenery and costumes added to the effectiveness of the act.

The Delta Gamma act entitled "Tragedie Algerienne," portrayed a subject of ties. An exceptionally clever chorus, wearing huge four-in-hand and bow ties and a tumbling act gave the skit a decided note of originality.

Organized when the school had less than one-third its present enrollment, the State University Men's Glee Club has sung its way into the hearts of the students. And not only the students, as each year the club makes a tour of the state, performing in the main cities.

The Glee Club entertains at convocations on various occasions. Having for so long been with the school and participated in its growth, the Charter Day program by the Glee Club was not only an entertainment but also a living monument to the "good old days" for the visiting grads.

The University Symphony Orchestra has delighted its hearers several times during the past year. It entertained at one convocation, two public concerts, Charter Day, Commencement and Baccalaureate.

The members of the Symphony Orchestra present an entirely different program at each appearance. "The Magic Flute" and "Figaro," two overtures by Mozart, Wablfenfel's waltzes, "Violets" and "The Skaters"; Grieg's "Morning" and "In the Hall of the Mountain King," together with varied selections by various composers have been ably presented.

INTERSCHOLASTIC

Coach Harry Lindberg and the Butte Championship Track Team.

Track Meet

The 1927 Interscholastic Track Meet was one of the closest that has ever been held. Butte high school won the meet with a total of twenty six points while Granite County high school of Philipsburg with twenty-one points, was second. Several of the schools had very well balanced teams, especially Butte.

Two records were broken when A. Maxson of Flathead County high school cleared the bar in the pole vault at eleven feet, eight and one half inches, and Clifford E. Jacobsen ran the two hundred and twenty yard low hurdles in twenty six and one half seconds. Many records were equalled and several of the different events were closely contested. Last year's meet, which was the twenty fourth to be held by the University, was the largest in history and some exceptional high school track athletes were among the long list of entrants. Great Falls high school won the relay race for the second consecutive year and was represented by a very fine team.

Moore

Individual honors went to Thomas Moore of Granite County high school at Philipsburg and Walter Smart of Gallatin County high school at Bozeman who were tied with eleven points. The team scores were very low last year as were the individual honors, which shows that the teams were quite evenly matched.

Little Theatre Tournament

Gallatin County high school, presenting "The Valiant," was awarded first prize in the Little Theatre Tournament, held in connection with the 1927 Interscholastic Track Meet. A beautiful silver loving cup was awarded the school for a trophy. Individual honors were also credited to Gallatin with the gold medals for the best actors being given to Elizabeth DeFrate, acclaimed the finest of the women and Stanton Cooper, who was chosen as the best of the men. Ladbv high school was honored with second place in the contest with its presentation of "The Glittering Gate."

Last year was the first time a Little Theatre Tournament was held and the new feature created considerable interest among many high schools over the state. It is expected that the tournament will in the future become one of the most important parts of Interscholastic Week.

Declamation

The Declamation contest was divided into two groups, one for girls and another for boys. The entries were then again divided into two more classes, one for humorous selections and one for subjects of a serious nature. The entry list was large and represented many different schools all over the state.

Helen Spaulding of Hamilton high school was awarded first prize in the girls' serious division for her presentation of "The Famine," an extract from Longfellow's "Hiawatha." Second place was won by Catherine Pettigrew of Shelby high school. She presented Norman Bruce's oration, "The Alien." Abcía O'Donnell of Missoula County high school received third place. She gave "The Soul of a Great Bell," by Lafcadio Hearn. Fourth place was won by Dorothy Twiggs of Billings high school for the presentation of Alfred Noyes' poem, "The Highwayman."

In the girls' humorous division, first place was awarded to Florence Simpson of Belfry high school who presented "Waiting for a Train." Second place in this group was given to Ella Kerner from Forsyth high school. She gave "At the Theatre."

John Stafford, from St. Charles high school in Helena, was awarded first place in the boys' serious group upon his excellent oration, "Petronious to Nero," by Sienkiewicz. Arnold Bauska was the only entry in the boys' humorous section and he presented "Bill Perkins' Toboggan Slide." He gave this in a very interesting manner.

Simpson

Professor E. L. Freeman of the English Department of the State University served in the capacity of chairman of the Declamation Contest. The judges for this phase of Interscholastic Week were Mrs. R. H. Jesse, Mrs. H. G. Merriam, and Professor W. P. Clark.

Declamation has become an important phase of Interscholastic Week activities and each year considerably more interest is being shown.

Debate

Representing a high school with an enrollment of only twenty-four students, the Clyde Park debate team was declared victor in the 1927 State Interscholastic Debate Contest and awarded the silver cup. Vera Gilbert, a sophomore, and Lois Nightingale, a Junior, composed Clyde Park's winning team.

Individual medals for the four best debaters were awarded to Richard Manning representing Fergus County high school, Lois Nightingale and Vera Gilbert of Clyde Park high school, and Hazel Spencer of Libby high school.

N. B. Book, debate coach at the University of Montana and manager of this year's high school debating contest, described the debates as being the best he had ever heard by high school students. The subject for the debates was "Resolved, that child labor amendments as proposed in the several states should be adopted." The teams from Libby and Clyde Park high schools upheld the affirmative, while those from Fergus and Dawson County high schools debated the negative side of the question.

Staff of "The Journalist"

Class A Newspaper Contest

High school newspapers form the center of another phase of Interscholastic Week and the many publications over the state are entered in a contest which is held in connection with the Interscholastic Editorial Association. This association is made up of editors and business managers of the many high school publications in Montana.

The schools are divided into two classes. Those schools with an enrollment of over five hundred students form Class A while schools with an enrollment under this figure compose Class B.

The Gallatin, published by Gallatin County high school of Bozeman, was awarded the silver cup last year as the winner of the Class A contest. Second place in this group was won by The Kyote, which is published by the students of Billings high school. Third place was awarded to The Konah of Missoula county high school of Missoula.

Each year the contest has become more important and interesting and the newspapers have all been improving from one contest to the next. The number of entries is increasing as well and resulted in developing the contest into one of considerable importance.

At each of the Interscholastic Editorial Association meetings talks are given by prominent newspaper men from all over the State of Montana which acquaints the students with many different phases of newspaper work and gives them new ideas and material to work from. Marjorie Stewart of The Nugget, published by Helena high school, was president of the Editorial Association last year. The newspaper contest is supervised by the faculty of the School of Journalism of the State University.

Staff of "The Centralite"

Class B Newspaper Contest

The Centralite of Butte Central high school was awarded the silver loving cup as the winner of the Class B newspaper contest. The staff of The Centralite is composed entirely of girls and the paper was a very fine one. The Signal Butte, which is published by students of Custer County high school at Miles City, was awarded second place in this division of the contest. The Stampede from Havre high school was judged to be the winner of third place in the Class B division.

When the newspaper contest was first established, and for a few years thereafter, the two divisions of Class A and Class B publications sufficed very well but in the last two years the contest has grown so rapidly that at last year's meetings it was determined to change the system of classifying and to divide the schools into four groups instead of just two. Under this new system the smaller schools that have papers that are not very large and are not published very often will be grouped together and will form the new divisions. This will make the contest much more interesting and valuable to the smaller schools and should result in a marked growth of the contest. Mimeographed newspapers will form one of these divisions and will provide a means of determining the better classes of this type of publication, whereas in the past they were entered in the same classes as the printed papers.

Another feature was added this year, an Annual Contest, and a silver loving cup will be awarded to the high school publishing the best year book.

SENSATIONAL SMASHUP ENDS OLD TRANSPORTATION FIGHT

Many lives were endangered in the thrilling episode at the campus entrance, when two vehicles collided in a cruel and unusual fashion. Further details on page 2.

MISSOULA MAGNATES ENJOY MOTORING WITH NEW MODELS

KETCHUM YOUNG, SELF APPOINTED No. 1 in regard to Missoula and points nearby, would have all cars turned up. "The automobile is a vehicle of size and capability for our youth," Mr. Young stated. "and to turn under their wheels is allowed to drive one of these motor-buses of the day. At that time he will be either married or else to cope with the spirit which usually follows in the path of Jazz, Flappers and Dances."

THERE'LL BE A HOT TIME IN THE OLD TOWN POSSIBLY, IF THESE first five ladies get their wish to enjoy all their gorgeous new machines, which is kept as sweet and clean as a city. Full equipment of fenders, hose, lamps, lights and so on, which that makes, characterizes the advanced features of this modern machine.

"Missoula always deserves the best," one of the students of the district is reported to have said. "and we've certainly got it now. Our new season will be just the same for the month of July party and the President's Ball and Prom."

THE BUCK PEOPLE APPRECIATE THE FACT THAT YOUTH MUST have its time and more designed time in and for the present generation and its progress. It comes equipped with headlights, a detachable spare tire that has several uses. Fenders, a top and a back seat, fenders and motor. Suitable seats, more power, a great delight to the young men along town. There is an article about it in the State University, mentioning possible time being set aside at street in a suit, say A. W. S. will probably change all that after one look at this machine and see the reason.

ON THE CROWDED BUSINESS streets, the Rambler shown above, demonstrates its usefulness. This is the second of its kind ever to reach Missoula, and although it is somewhat difficult for the untrained or dignified young Miss to handle on a windy day, you are showing a preference for this Rambler "70" for business and sports use.

GIRLIES HAVE SUCH A GOOD TIME AT THEIR LITTLE Y. W. C. A. CAFETERIA!!! Here one meets the socially elict and scholastically prominent students at the State University who find that the Y. W. is an admirable place to club around and have a chummy though dignified time. A tendency to wider-brimmed hats and longer skirts has been noted in the more recent meetings of "our girls." Does the punch bowl on the shelf contain anything? The girls say not, but — Also note the apparent absence of ash trays, verily an unusual thing!

ONE OF THIS YEAR'S SENSATIONAL YIP DELIGHTFUL NOVELTIES was the series of teas at Gorton hall where the girls entertained and had their best friends as shown above. It is customary at these affairs to discuss Missions, the Presidential campaign, and "Chat a Mat' Lave After Thought." Many personal arguments are reserved for themselves during and the Grill. Food is a major item at all teas, including those at Gorton, and attendance fell down considerably when this fact was discovered, but many arguments felt that more intellectual contacts could be made at meetings at Langdon Club and at entertainments for the famous visiting lecturers who have been held in town.

IDA AND BEA WALKER ARE the biggest models who were mentioned for first prize in the girls' contest for most dainty and best costume. The Misses Walker entered, stating that their mother walked home and thought they were in perfect condition, and stated that no home and would be glad to display available.

STRINGENT CHAPERONAL WILL GUARD SWEET CO-EDS

"Boys and girls together," as the song says, but a doubtful mention ever being about the suppression of Montanahip chaperons, who have been invited to protect the young girls who come to college, whether they go from home or from the country.

The General Board at the top of the page shows its adoption of a number of young students on the campus. They are without parents and need a cordonee to meet necessities, but have been less than adequately chaperoned in the "unfortunate" school chaperone staffs. Mary A. The principal second from the right has observed publicly to the legislative committee an oversight at all University times, and is lacking a complete to wipe cooperation and cooperation all the time at Montana.

Conditions Must Be Changed.

Mr. The said in part: "These chaperones were all a lot of (chaperones) with blankets and they don't know how to dance at all. When I was in the summer chaperones were people who helped the kids do what we can't probably wanted to. Now some of these chaperones don't know what they're supposed to do. They going to start a chaperone correspondence course for these chaperone chaperones. Instead of looking for deals in ballrooms and dances, and helping together with a student help to help chaperones should be the better and just what in the following manner:

"1. Discontinue whenever that can be used as evidence in any meeting where dancing situations or physical fitness.

"2. Keeping track of the press and addresses of local headliners."

Smoke and Fire

Because the night-winterman knew the value "When there's smoke there's fire," as he watched Miss Jane Knicker and Joseph M. Kollage near the Natural Science building, on reported the matter to University authorities, who expelled Mr. Kollage for putting on a red party, and suspended Miss Knicker as an accessory to the crime.

They will report the case in the highest courts of the land, if necessary, it was stated.

Montana Has Clean Record, 'No Suicides'

In a summary of its most valuable accomplishments for the past year, the register's office at the State University of Montana announced that it is proud to have a clean record of no suicides during 1927-28.

"Few colleges in the country can boast of such distinction," A. H. Cook announced with pride. "And we are proud that of Montana's cleanest record since 1900 to 1927, no one was so thoughtless as to hang out of his or her own life with suicide. Although the statistics record of Montana State U. This will be an inspiration to the further good work in the name of our Alma Mater."

Molly Mix Says "Girls Who Wish to Be Respected Must Not Hold Hands"

Dear Molly Mix. I am 17, blond and considered good looking. I go out a lot with the college boys and they all want to hook, but Mother says unless I should wait a year. Is it wrong to hold hands at the show in the dark?
—Brown Eyes

Dear Brown Eyes. If you were out with college boys don't, whatever you do let them hold your hands, for if you let them be familiar and take such liberties, they will never respect you as they should. Your mother is right. You'd be able to appreciate college men much more in the time you're 18—Molly Mix

Dear Molly Mix. I have a girl my father's pin a few nights ago and one of my father's business clients that he had done the same thing. I would like my pin returned, and I think the girl should take into consideration the spirit in which it was given. What should I do?
—Happy Joe

Dear Happy Joe. The only thing I can suggest as a sure way of getting anything away from a woman is to assault her with extraordinary bundles of clubs to induce her into an unreasonable condition. Then have the pin. Your wife.

—Molly Mix

Molly.

Dear Miss Molly Mix. I don't own an attic apartment, or even a pleasing personality. How can I make girls fall for me?
—Hiram Hall

Dear Hiram Hall. I suggest that you put a string across the sidewalk and trip 'em. You have the advantage—Molly Mix

Dear Molly Mix. I am thirty-five, have been married for 25 years, and am coming for my age. I am going to summer session at the State University. How can I have a good time?
—Ann Howe

Dear Ann Howe. How, Ann Howe? Don't worry, you just can't help your self.

Pretty Clothes Make Ugly Duckling Into Popular Co-ed.

"Words cannot express how grateful I am to the Home Economics department of the University for all it has done for me." Yvette Ward easily dropped her eyes without faint blush.

"I was always the well-known at home, and none of the show-bizness or faith lands would understand to get along with me. If," she hesitated then continued with her ordinary unadorned attire. "It wasn't because I didn't try. I read fifteen minutes a day I could talk to the Chinese waiter in French. I entertained my friends by making polite speeches, and by playing the saxophone and piano. I read literature and the book of arithmetic three times a day.

"But I knew there was something lacking but not until I read the advertisement for the State University did I realize that what I needed to bring out my charm was pretty clothes.

"I enrolled in Home Ec. and after my first lesson my shopping was asked. After my second lesson, I earned a shopping bill by myself, and that night Rob proposed. We were married after my third lesson and I certainly recommend this course to young girls who want to succeed in the world, and to combine both happiness and a career."

XENEPHON, The Wise Greek

said—"Who knows, but life is death and death is life?" A learned remark, but one not worth a great deal of thought. For after all, what difference does it really make.

Time has proven that a life of service is a happy life, and whether life is life, or life is death, who cares, so long as—call it what you will—we're happy in it.

Possibly no field in the world provides the opportunity for service that a store does.

And because we're trying hard to serve our public well, we're extremely happy!

"quality—always at a saving"

133 East Main St.

Missoula, Mont.

We are happy with pride and thankfulness for the privilege of serving the American people and are thankful for the response we have received for our effort.

Since the spring day in April, 1902, when Mr. Penney inaugurated in a small inconspicuous manner a Retail Shopping Service which was destined to become one of Nation wide Helpfulness, we have been mindful of the responsibilities to the legion of patrons who have contributed and today are contributing so generously, in helping to make our Service not of profit alone, but of confidence that rests on good will.

We hope we will be able to prove more useful in the future and be more beneficial to the increasing number who come to us.

IN APPRECIATION

There are many sources from which the staff has solicited aid in creating the 1928 Sentinel. Many individuals have ever been willing to advise us, some have furnished us with historical data and an abundance of photographs which were used in working out the theme, and others, many of whom are representatives of commercial enterprises, have aided us in the mechanical part of the work. We are greatly indebted for the invaluable assistance these people have given us and take this opportunity to acknowledge to the following our appreciation.

EVERYBODY BENEFITS

The Montana consumer is now saving approximately $50,000 annually by using "GW" beet sugar. Its exclusive use would increase this saving to $75,000 or more and under the sliding scale beet contract and normal conditions would increase the returns of the Montana beet growers at least $100,000 annually. The use of "GW" sugar, therefore, works to the advantage of everybody—the consumer, the beet grower and the manufacturer as well as the community in general.

Use "GW" Sugar and ask for it by name

THE most unusual covers on annuals this year were furnished by THE S. K. SMITH COMPANY. The cover of the Beaver, the cover of the Tye of Washington, the cover of the Gopher of Minnesota, the cover of the Illio, the cover of the Makio of Ohio State, and there are hundreds of others too numerous to mention that are examples of the workmanship of this organization.

Every S. K. SMITH COVER is specially designed for the book it is to appear on. Every S. K. SMITH Cover is as deeply embossed as the cover on this annual. Every S. K. SMITH COVER is made of a high grade of material.

Send us your cover problems and we shall be glad to suggest a solution to them with no obligation on your part.

There Are Two Mountains— On Montana's Campus

One of them is Mount Sentinel rising full and massive beside the gridiron.

The other is the Mount of Opportunity—towering taller even than the hills, and of greater potency. An immeasurable tower of opportunity to learn of things contributing to a broad and happy life.

History, languages, exotic cultures, journalism, music, pharmacy, law, forestry, sciences, physical education—all, and more for a complete and even-tempered curriculum.

A Montana school for Montana people, offering a mountain of educational opportunities.
